Citizens' responses to the European economic crisis in the public domain

DOI: 10.1111/polp.12134
CITIZENS’ RESPONSES TO THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC CRISIS IN THE PUBLIC DOMAIN

A Special Issue of Politics & Policy

Guest Edited by Manlio Cinalli and Marco Giugni

Introduction to the Special Issue: Citizens’ Responses to the European Economic Crisis in the Public Domain  Manlio Cinalli and Marco Giugni 388

Which Crisis? European Crisis and National Contexts in Public Discourse  Lorenzo Zamponi and Lorenzo Bosi 400

Collective Responses to the Economic Crisis in the Public Domain: Myth or Reality?  Manlio Cinalli and Marco Giugni 427

How Civil Society Actors Responded to the Economic Crisis: The Interaction of Material Deprivation and Perceptions of Political Opportunity Structures  Marco Giugni and Maria T. Grasso 447

The Visibility of the EU in the National Public Spheres in Times of Crisis and Austerity  Sabina Monza and Eva Anduiza 499

Political Claims and Discourse Formations: A Comparative Account on Germany and Greece in the Eurozone Crisis  Christian Labuwen, Maria Kousu, Johannes Kiess, and Maria Paskeou 525

Aims and Scope

Politics & Policy is a peer-reviewed journal focusing on international comparative policy and political issues for scholars in public policy, political science, and comparative and international studies. The editors invite manuscripts offering quality original research in any area of political science, the public policy spectrum, and all levels of the policy process. These include, but are not restricted to: international or cross-national politics and political issues with a comparative focus; policy theory and political theory with international comparative application; comparative public policy, public administration, and international political economy; comparative studies in development, democratization, democracy, participation, voting behavior, electoral politics and policy, and security strategy; international relations and foreign policy; analyses of the theory, values, and/or public/political support influencing policy trends, adoption, contestation, or change; policy framing in comparative perspective; the challenges and opportunities facing policy networks; policy design and misdesign.

Strong preference will be given to submissions demonstrating a balanced comparative treatment of policy in more than one country. Transborder, cross-national, or wider international research emphasizing a comparative study’s political implications are especially welcome. Manuscripts dealing comparatively with aspects of democracy and democratization, global governance, or policies that transcend, or resist, the advent of porous borders are also actively invited, as are robust review articles on the current state of the literature.

Copyright and Photocopying

© 2016 Policy Studies Organization. All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored, or transmitted in any form or by any means without the prior permission in writing from the copyright holder. Authorization to photocopy items for internal and personal use is granted by the copyright holder for libraries and other users registered with their local Reproduction Rights Organization (RRO), e.g., Copyright Clearance Center (CCC), 222 Rosewood Drive, Danvers, MA 01923, USA (http://www.copyright.com), provided the appropriate fee is paid directly to the RRO. This consent does not extend to other kinds of copying such as copying for general distribution, for advertising or promotional purposes, for creating new collective works, or for resale. Special requests should be addressed to permissions@wiley.com

Disclaimer

The Publisher, Policy Studies Organization, and Editors cannot be held responsible for errors or any consequences arising from the use of information contained in this journal; the views and opinions expressed do not necessarily reflect those of the Publisher, Policy Studies Organization, and Editors, neither does the publication of advertisements constitute any endorsement by the Publisher, PSO, and Editors of the products advertised.

Proceeding of the Policy Studies Organization is available online at http://www.psocommons.org/proceedings